

When Wilson returned from Paris in February, 1919, he got a mixed reception.

Getting a Taste of It

J. H. Donahey. The Plain Dealer (Cleveland), c. 1919.

The League of Nations Argument in a Nutshell

Jay N. Darling. The Des Moines Register, c. 1919.

While the President tried to line up congressional support in Washington, the Allies in Paris were putting the finishing touches on the peace treaty. It was signed with great fanfare in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles on June 28, 1919. As Boardman Robinson foresaw in his prophetic cartoon, the treaty was badly flawed.