

THURSDAY MAY 15

After taking the map quiz Thursday, we walked around Lane's campus to look at and learn about the "cultural landscape" of our campus. Everyone received a second handout about reading the cultural landscapes and the corollaries of human landscapes as CLUES to the culture that built them.

TUESDAY MAY 20 ASSIGNMENT

Your assignment for the next class- tomorrow – is to explore a neighborhood and try to read the cultural landscape to understand the culture. Some students will walk their own neighborhoods, and other will decide to use a less familiar area.

You are to hand in a written paper accompanied by a map (internet source) that shows your area in some detail. The map should include the core or administrative center of the hood, (you draw it in) the boundary of where your study area turns into another "hood". All of these are difficult to "read" or see in the landscape. Do your best to define your area's traits by what you see and what you can TOUCH - not what you already know. . . Where are the traits strongest in the landscape?. Photos are encouraged. If you have a digital camera or phone- use it ! Are there outliers? Places that look like they belong somewhere else? Can you use any of the corollaries in the reading to help explain the culture in your region? (if you missed class please see your reading on the American Landscape that was handed out in the first 2 weeks of class. GO OUTSIDE AND LOOK FOR CLUES TO THE CULTURE OF YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD. Have fun. It's a beautiful day!
